The cooling, hypoallergenic properties make it perfect for warm weather clothing and sharp, durable bedding. Europeans have long enjoyed canvas sheets for the quality, comfort, and subtle, refined look of the family heirloom. Bed linen is a good bet for the last sheets. Linen fibers are 30 percent stronger than cotton. The fabric is also more environmentally friendly than cotton, as flax has less water and fewer chemicals to cultivate. Although bed linen is prone to wrinkles, it is part of the charm. And unlike cotton and other materials, canvas sheets can improve your appearance and feel softer over time. In advance, these shopping tips and recommendations for the best canvas sheets will help you find a range that boasts style and sustainable design. The manufacturer may send the harvested plants to factories in China or India for production. Belgian canvas must be trademarked by the Belgian Flax & Linen Association, certified to be grown and woven in Belgium. Depending on the origin of flax and the quality and manufacturing process of the canvas fabric, a set of canvas sheets (equipped with flat, and two pillowcases) cost between $60 and $250 or more. From the ideal softness level to the perfect fit, keep these factors in mind before buying canvas sheets. Thread Count and SoftnessLinen sheets are often stiffer when shopping than cotton, bamboo, or microfiber, and feel a little rough initially. The stiff feeling is due to the flax fiber as well, which is thicker and stiffer than cotton and other natural fibers. The thread count of the canvas sheets is also lower than that of cotton – again due to the thread thickness – so look for threads between 80 and 150 for high-quality canvas. Canvas sheets can be stone washed to ensure softness right out of the box. This is a finishing process in which the manufacturer places fabric industrial aramate natural and manufactured stones. The effect of stones softens the material without compromising the strength and integrity of the fibers. The result? Softer feeling and fine gloss. Easy vs. HeavyweightThread Count is not the only way to measure canvas quality. Many companies prefer to use GSM or grams per square meter. This measure of thickness, so the sheets with higher GSM (between 150 and 180) usually last longer and feel heavier than the lower GSMs. Thicker sheets may not be rougher, but they feel stiff at first. Fortunately, bed linen softens over time with its use and multiple washings. FitCheck all brand dimensions to ensure a proper fit for your mattress.
